OpenMoveType

Represents types that could contain references or free type parameters. Such types can appear as function parameters, in fields of structs, or as actual type parameter.

Structured representation of the type signature.

Flat representation of the type signature, as a displayable string.

MoveField object ● MoveFunction object